Helping to protect you and your community from wildfire.

Wildfires are a growing challenge across the country, and it's important to be prepared. If we need to shut off power for safety, you can stay informed by receiving email and text alerts. Sign in to your aps.com account now to be sure your contact information is current. For your safety, please consider keeping grass, weeds, trees and shrubs trimmed, get emergency alerts through local resources, and visit ein.az.gov to create an emergency preparedness plan.

To prepare and help prevent wildfires in Arizona, our crews:

- Maintain more than 38,000 miles of power lines.
- Create defensible space by reducing vegetation around equipment poles and inside substations.
- Implement a targeted Public Safety Power Shutoff program to be used only in certain high-risk fire conditions.

During high-risk conditions, we take extra steps to reduce the risk of wildfires. This can include taking power lines out of service so first responders can enter the area safely. We may need to take extra time to inspect lines to ensure they are not damaged before restoring power.

Thank you in advance for your patience as we work to help protect first responders, communities, wildlife, the environment and property.
